Miguel Conesa

Solutions Architect at Cisco Systems

Gaetano is an outstanding trainer and exceptional architect for virtualization and datacenter technology. He is capable to explain and troubleshoot deep technical details, while also abstract the architecture from a high level overview and add real life examples with deployments. Thanks to his open personality, he is engaging the students in the class, always available to help and answer any doubt. less

“ I've met Gaetano during the Red Hat technical training courses organized for TIM and, since the beginning, I've noticed a strong propensity in knowledge sharing and an effective leadership in teaching that allowed the extensive participation of all the students with a positive approach, both in virtual classroom and in frontal training. The courses have been well-structured and Gaetano was always available to provide further details and information to the students, in the perimeter of the subject discussed in the course.
